DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

1. Claims 1-2, 4-6, 8, 26, 28 and 30-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Chen et al. (6,204,458).

Chen teaches a switch assembly (please see fig. 5) comprising:

a housing 18 (comprising of 18 and 10);

a first contact 36 with pad portion supported by the housing (fig. 5), and having a connector portion 13 extending outside the housing;

a second contact 46 with a pad portion supported by the housing, and having a connector portion 15 extending outside the housing;

the second contact 46 having a spring portion (between 15 and 46) and an actuator portion (above 36 in fig. 5);

the contacts are normally opened (see fig. 5); and an actuator portion (of the housing) having a cam portion 58.

Regarding claim 6 please see fig. 5.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 2832

3. Claim 27 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chen et al. in view of Jost et al. (5,963,772).

Chen teaches the claimed invention except for the contact pads being formed with silver-nickel and silver-tin for the first and the second pad, respectively.

Jost teaches silver-nickel and silver-tin contact metal for contact welding and erosion rate characteristics. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide the contact pads of Chen with the contact pad materials as taught by Jost, since the pads of Jost would provide the device of Chen with better welding and erosion resistance.

Claim 29 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chen et al. The patentability of a product does not depend on its method of production. If the product in the product-by-process claim is the same as or obvious from a product of the prior art, the claim is unpatentable even though the prior product was made by a different process.” In re Thorpe, 777 F.2d 695, 698, 227 USPQ 964, 966 (Fed. Cir. 1985).

Double Patenting

4. Claims 1-16, 20-21 and 23-25 of this application conflict with claims 1-4, 6-22 (claim 5 missing) of Application No. 10/320,798. 37 CFR 1.78(b) provides that when two or more applications filed by the same applicant contain conflicting claims, elimination of such claims from all but one application may be required in the absence of good and sufficient reason for their retention during pendency in more than one application. Applicant is required to either cancel the conflicting claims from all but one application or maintain a clear line of demarcation between the applications. See MPEP § 822.

Art Unit: 2832

5. A rejection based on double patenting of the "same invention" type finds its support in the language of 35 U.S.C. 101 which states that "whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process ... may obtain a patent therefor ..." (Emphasis added). Thus, the term "same invention," in this context, means an invention drawn to identical subject matter. See Miller v. Eagle Mfg. Co., 151 U.S. 186 (1894); In re Ockert, 245 F.2d 467, 114 USPQ 330 (CCPA 1957); and In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970).

A statutory type (35 U.S.C. 101) double patenting rejection can be overcome by canceling or amending the conflicting claims so they are no longer coextensive in scope. The filing of a terminal disclaimer cannot overcome a double patenting rejection based upon 35 U.S.C. 101.

6. Claims 1-16, 20-21 and 23-25 are provisionally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as claiming the same invention as that of claims 1-4, 6-22 (claim 5 missing) of copending Application No. 10/320,798. This is a provisional double patenting rejection since the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.
